Technical Writing × AI Automation × Content Strategy

AI SKILLS	CONTENT	SEO	AUTOMATION
Creating reusable skills and agents	Drafting, rephrasing & refinement	Optimization & content findability	AI-powered content workflows

Dear Hiring Manager,

I am a Senior Technical Writer with 8+ years of experience creating developer documentation, API documentation, product content, release notes, and SEO-focused content for enterprise software. My current focus combines technical writing with AI automation, where I create skills and agents that support my day-to-day content development and documentation workflows.

A key part of my work is building practical AI-assisted workflows for content creation. I create agents that use Jira information to generate structured content drafts, assist with rephrasing and refinement, support SEO optimization, and prepare content for updates in wiki and knowledge-base systems. I combine these workflows with technical writing judgment and editorial review so the final content remains accurate, clear, and aligned with documentation requirements.

My broader experience includes information architecture, docs-as-code workflows, Git, Markdown, Sphinx, knowledge-base publishing, and collaboration with engineering and subject-matter experts. This enables me to connect content strategy with practical automation and use AI to streamline repetitive documentation tasks while keeping quality and consistency at the center of the process.

I am looking to grow further at the intersection of technical writing, AI automation, and content strategy. I would welcome the opportunity to contribute my experience in technical documentation, AI skills and agents, SEO, and content workflow automation while continuing to build scalable AI-assisted content processes.
